FROM THE JULY 4TH FLAG FAIRY: Residents of an eastern section of Princeton Township awoke Saturday morning to find American flags planted at the edge of their lawns. Rafi Witten, age 2, of Clover Lane, plays with the flag that was at his house. Most residents were pleased by this anonymous display of patriotism. A few were annoyed, calling it an invasion of privacy, and turned their flags upside down. The area covered seems to have been north of Route 27, in the vicinity of Littlebrook School. (Linda Prospero, photo)

Ban on Smoking at Schools Extended to the Outdoors

A policy that extends the current ban on smoking inside school buildings on to school property has been approved on first reading by the School Board. A second reading will be held either on July 13 or sometime in August.

Smoking inside school buildings was banned by the State several years ago. Since then, the high school has permitted smoking to the roar of the school, outside the cafeteria.

A number of parents and several School Board members have objected to this.

The extended ban would cover all School District property, and would be in effect at all times. This means, for example, that smoking previously allowed in the stands during athletic events would now be prohibited.

Any student found smoking would be suspended according to standard building disciplinary procedures. A second offense could lead to further suspension, a referral to counseling, and a $100 fine.

An employee found smoking the third timo would be subject to a written complaint to the Board of Health.

Acting Superintendent Lee Pisauro said the administration had some concern about enforcement of the policy. He also noted that students could walk to the public sidewalk 70 feet away if thoy wanted to smoke.

In other business, the School Board last week agreed to hiro the New Jersey School Boards Association to conduct its search for a permanent superintendent. The position is being filled by Richard Willever on an interim basis.

Elderly Couple Perish In a Double Suicide; Married for 62 Years

Edward W. Herold, 85, and his 82-year-old wife, Alexandra, were found dead in a bedroom of their home at 332 Riverside Drive last week, the victims of a double suicide. The couple had been married for 62 years.

Police found the Herolds in separate beds. There was a plastic bag around the head of each secured with a velcro strap. According to Capt. David Cromwell, Mr. Herold, a retired research engineer, was suffering from a terminal illness.

The couple's only daughter died in 1991. They are survived by a son-in-law in Connecticut and twin grandsons living in Massachusetts. The Kimble Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

"They planned everything," said Capt. Cromwell. "They were serious about what they wanted to do and they did it."

Princeton Jr. School Moving to Building Off Alexander Road

Princeton Junior School has signed a lease for more than 10,000 square feet of space in an office building off Alexander Road in West Windsor.

Founded in 1983 as the successor to Miss Mason's School, Princeton Junior School has been located in church basements for most of its 10-year history. Only in 1989-90 was the entire school, pre-kindergarten through second grade at the time, housed under one roof, classrooms in Littlebrook School that had been vacated by the Lakeside Montessori School.

Since then the school bas added a third and fourth grade. As classroom space became tight in the Princeton Regional School District,

Princeton Professor Collaborated with Arthur Ashe on "Days of Grace"

In the seven months before Arthur Ashe's death on February 6, Princeton University Professor Arnold Rampersad probably spent more time with him than anyone outside his family and doctors.

Their frequent meetings were devoted to collaborating on Days of Grace, Ashe's poignant memoir of a life that was cut short by AIDS at the age of 49.

The seeds of the collaboration were planted at Littlebrook School in November, 1991, when Mr. Rampersad, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature at Princeton University, was introduced to Ashe at an African-American Children's Book Fair held at the school.

The following June — two months after he announced he had AIDS — Ashe called Prof. Rampersad at his Stockton Street home to ask if he was interested in working with him on a book.

The book Ashe envisioned was to be about race and politics, and also about AIDS. "I believed from the outset, with the instinct of a biographer, that I wanted to know a lot about him as an individual," said Prof. Rampersad, who told Ashe that the book would succeed only insofar as it was able to mix those concerns with some revelation about his private self.

"Arthur was a very fast learner and very intelligent. He quickly accepted the wisdom of what I was suggesting," said Prof. Rampersad. "I also told him that ultimately he could cut anything out of the book he wanted. But I don't think he ever exercised that right. I don't think he ever cut anything out of the book because it was private."

In July, Prof. Rampersad began taking the train three times a week to the Ashe home on Manhattan's upper east side. Ashe offered to come down to Princeton, but Prof. Rampersad would not allow this. He did take the train down once, where he met a woman tennis coach he knew. "He told me how much he enjoyed running into her and that they'd had a good talk," Prof. Rampersad said.

Ashe was very easy to work with, said Prof. Rampersad, "very sympathetic to what I had to do, and cooperative."

The interviews resulted in hundreds of pages of notes, and led to numerous conver-

School Board

The search will be conducted by Carol Larsen, the NJSBA district representative, and is budgeted at $5,000. "It will be a national search and there will be community and staff involvement," said Mr. Pisauro.

He added that the School Board hopes to begin interviewing candidates for superintendent in December or January.

The Board also accepted the resignation of choral director Geoffrey Holland after just one year on the job. Mr. Holland said he was resigning to complete work on his doctorate.

Charles Sundquist, who was hired in May as a choral music teacher, will be in charge until a replacement for Mr. Holland is found, said Mr. Pisauro.

Mr. Holland was hired after an intensive interview process that involved parents and staff. He replaced William Trego, a highly popular choral director who retired from the District.

Suicide

The couple, he said, left a suicide note. On a night stand were three books on how to commit suicide.

According to Capt. Cromwell, police received a 9:30 call Thursday morning from Richard Lambert, attorney for Mr. Herold. Mr. Lambert informed police that he had just received a letter from Mr. Herold in which he wrote that he and his wife intended to commit suicide together because he was suffering from a terminal illness. He left instructions on how to handle the bodies.

Police went to the house at 9:40 and broke a rear door to enter. They found the victims on the beds. They had been dead for about two days, Capt. Cromwell said.

That afternoon, Township police received a letter, dated June 29, from the Heralds containing a key to the house and an explanation for their act.

A native of New York City, Mr. Herold graduated in 1930 from the University of Virginia with a degree in physics. He joined RCA upon graduation and earned his masters degree and an honorary doctor of science degree from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn for his work on electron tubes and solid state devices.

In 1957, Mr. Herold was in charge of a group working at Princeton University's Stellarator project doing research on thermonuclear fusion. Two years later, he joined a California research lab as a vice president but returned to Princeton in 1965. He was a member of the RCA Sarnoff corporate engineering staff until his retirement in 1973.

Princeton Junior School once again became a tenant of churches while it continued to search for a building of its own, or land on which to build a school. The lower grades have been housed at the Unitarian Church and the upper grades at Christ Congregation.

In 1991, the school purchased five acres on the corner of Fackler Road and Route 206 and received conditional use approval for school use from the Lawrence Township Planning Board. An architect has drawn up conceptual plans for a single-story building containing 13,325 square feet of classroom space on the property. A fund-raising drive raised enough money to purchase the property and pay the costs associated with making the application to the Lawrence Planning Board. Another major fund-raising effort will be necessary to raise money for construction.

According to John Leedham, secretary of the board of trustees and publicist for the school, one of the reasons for taking the new space is to gain greater visibility for the school as a unified entity. "We are well known among people who have had children at the school," Mr. Leedham said last week. "But beyond that we are blind and faceless."

The new facility will be located in the back corner of a one-story office building at 719 Alexander Road formerly occupied by the Division of Youth Services. The building is located behind the former US Tennis Association building, across from Carnegie Center. It is surrounded by lawns and playing fields which will give Princeton Junior School children space for recreation and sports activities for the first time in the school's history.

Matthew Lubart Esq. negotiated the tenancy agreement with V.P. Realty of West Windsor, which owns the building. James Britt of Jamieson, Moore, Peskin and Spicer, a former parent, is managing the zoning and site plan applications before the West Windsor Planning Board. Vincent Myers of Harvey Myers Associates, a Princeton architectural firm, will design the interior renovation to accommodate school use.

According to Mr. Leedham, there will be 10 classrooms with windows located all along the outside of the corner space. The interior area will be given over to an art room/science room and a music room, both with special lighting. The entire space is fully air-conditioned, a luxury the school has never had before. This amenity has given rise to plans of expanding the recent, highly successful summer arts program, which is open to the community at large as well as students currently in the school.

Model for Community

This year, under the leadership of Jean Becette, an artist and PJS art teacher, and architect Suzanne Buschsbaum, more than 50 children age 4 through 10 participated in creating an enchanted forest. They built a forest house, painted banners and costumes, and sang and danced. PJS views itself as a model of early childhood education and plans to continue to offer enrichment programs to the community.

Headmistress Juliana Cuyler McIntyre, co-founder of the school with Helen Craven, has announced a public meeting on Wednesday, July 28, at 8 at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church at which she will discuss the philosophy of Princeton Junior School.

"The child's wonder and interests are not confined to a pre-determined linear sequence," Mrs. McIntyre observes. "A deeper logic prevails within each individual child. The teacher must be able to perceive this and have the flexibility of resources to nurture the child's own wisdom.

"This is why the school's symbol is the nautilus shell," she continues, "signifying the spiral creation of the whole, cell by cell, moving ever outward on the strengths already laid down."

Although it has been a basic tenet of the school to stay on the Princeton side of Route One, Mr. Leedham said everyone is very happy about the upcoming move. "Princeton Junior School has established itself as a significant institution over the past 10 years," said Ethna Dorman, president of the board of trustees. "We were bursting at the seams. For the program to continue to evolve we needed our own, centrally located, air-conditioned facility.

"Now we can offer programs, services and facilities we have only dreamed about before."

Borough Moves Ahead With CBD Improvements

Borough Council voted last week to move forward with the reconstruction of roads and sidewalks in the Central Business District by awarding the contract for the job to Green Construction.

The $943,830 project includes the reconstruction of sidewalks, curbs, and roadway on the full length of Chambers Street, and sidewalk and curb reconstruction on Nassau Street from 2 Nassau Street to Palmer Square.

The design of the area to be improved will be very similar to that of Witherspoon and Nassau streets. Both streets were reconstructed over the past five years.

Councilman David Goldfarb cast the only no vote. He said he agreed Chambers Street should be redone, but felt the Nassau Street sidewalk between Palmer Square West and 2 Nassau Street was not in very bad shape. He said he wasn't convinced that spending $250,000 on this section was the best use of Borough funds.

An informational meeting on the project was held before the vote. It was attended by a number of Chambers and Nassau Street merchants.

David Wendroff, of Harry Ballot on Nassau Street, was not at the meeting, but he had written to Mayor and Council opposing any construction of Nassau Street sidewalks that would go beyond Labor Day.

The contract permits work to be done through the end of October. Work is scheduled to begin July 19.

Noting that there is a million dollars involved, Mr. Wendroff asked why some of these funds couldn't be used to establish an economic development office, "which is what is needed at this time — not ornamental sidewalks."

Mary Anne Helms, of Nassau Street's Little Bit of What You Fancy, also spoke in favor of postponing the work until next year. "There are two stores closed at 20 Nassau Street," she said. "I don't believe it will start July 19. I'm a pessimist. If it started as soon as graduation was over, we would be finished earlier."

Leo Arons, of Chambers Street's The Gilded Lion, said most of the merchants on the street were in favor of reconstructing the road this year. The two exceptions are White Lotus Futon and CG Gallery.

Forest Jeweler's Mitch Forest suggested that some of the work be done at night. But it was agreed that the people who live above the stores on Nassau Street, as well as on Bank Street, would be disturbed by the noise.

Councilman Ray Wadsworth moved that the project go forward. Voting for the motion was Mr. Wadsworth, Mildred Trotman, and Mark Freda.

Planning Board Approves Office Addition Project

The Princeton Planning Board gave preliminary approval last week to Church & Dwight's plans to build a 55,550-square-foot addition to its existing building on Bunn Drive.

The company asked for preliminary and final approval, but the board decided to grant preliminary approval only, pending resolution of landscaping and parking issues by the board's landscape subcommittee. The proposed project involves construction of an L-shaped additinn, part nne-story, part two stories, to the north and east of the existing building. The new construction will form a courtyard enclosed by the existing and new structures.

When the new building is completed, the square footage on the 22 acres will be at the maximum allowed in the

HANLEY AND GAYLORD COMPLETE LAW ENFORCEMENT EXECUTIVE SEMINAR: Captain Peter J. Hanley of the Borough Police Department (second from left) and Township Chief of Police Anthony Gaylord (second from right) have completed a five-day Greater Atlantic Law Enforcement Executive Development Seminar at the Woodrow Wilson School of International Affairs on the Princeton University campus. "It was a very good seminar. One of the best I've ever attended," said Capt. Hanley. The program was developed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in cooperation with the Princeton University Department of Public Safety and the Borough Police Department to provide top law enforcement officers with high quality management and leadership training. At right is Borough Chief Thomas Michaud. At left is Jerry Witsil, Director of Public Safety at Princeton University and in the center is James Esposito, special agent in charge of the Newark Office of the FBI.

Office-Research 2 zone, which allows a floor-area-ratio of 13 percent if at least 40 percent of all existing and proposed buildings on the site are used for laboratory research. In order to maintain this 40 percent as laboratory research, a portion of the existing building not currently used for research purposes must be converted to research.

Under the Township ordinance, 478 parking spaces are required with the new addition. There are currently 215 parking spaces on site, with 103 spaces "banked" under an agreement with the Township. These are spaces that are set aside, indicated on the site plan but not built. Church & Dwight proposed to add 35 more spaces in a reconfigured parking lot to the rear of the property and defer another 135 spaces.

Variances Requested

Conditional use authorization for deferral of 238 of the required parking spaces was requested. In addition two variances having to do with requirements for providing shade trees and island strips in the parking lots were requested.

Mark Berkowsky, architect and planner for Church & Dwight on this project, pointed out that providing islands in the parking lots would require enlarging the lots and involve taking down trees in the surrounding wooded area. He said 278 trees would be lost in the surrounding woods, as against the 78 that would be planted in the parking lots.

Planning Board members expressed concern for the visibility of the new lot from the residences at the adjacent Governor's Lane development. They also agreed with Richard Collier, their planning consultant, that an island of green buffering the existing parking lot from the periphery road would be desirable.

At issue was whether the banked spaces should be configured with or without the requisite islands and trees and whether more spaces are being banked than the ordinance allows.

The board agreed with its traffic consultant that the southern driveway to Church & Dwight, which exits right at the intersection of Bunn Drive and Harrison Street, should be closed for safety reasons. Church & Dwight will be assessed $151,000 as its fair share of offsite road improvements, but the money will be spent on improving the Bunn Drive-Ewing and Harrison Street intersection, primarily by widening Harrison Street to provide turning lanes.

Driver Charged with DWI, His Passenger Had Cocaine

A driver was charged with drunken driving and his passenger with possession of cocaine, after their pickup truck was stopped early Saturday morning on Washington Road.

Ptl. Kevin Creegan pulled a 1978 Dodge pickup over after he observed it being driven erratically and later charged the driver, Huber Parker, 62, of Bensalem, Pa. with driving while intoxicated. At headquarters, Parker had a blood alcohol reading of .13 — .3 over the legal limit. He was later released after posting $250 bail, pending a preliminary hearing in Township court.

At the same time, Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel interviewed the passenger, Stephanie Durden, 40, of Princeton Arms, East Windsor. While at the scene, as Ms. Durden took a handkerchief out of her pocket, a blue, plastic bag fell on the fender of the truck. The officer recognized its contents as crack cocaine.

Ms. Durden then pulled a glass tube from her pocket and tried to throw it away. Police described it as tubing used to smoke coke.

Ms. Durden was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of drug paraphernalia and tampering with evidence. She was later released and is scheduled to appear in Borough court on Monday.

Sleeper In Car Charged

A resident of Harrisburg, Pa., Joseph E. Ciuffo, 39, was charged with three offenses last week after he was found at 3:30 Thursday morning sleeping in a car that was parked near the boat dock off Route 27.

Ciuffo was charged with possession of a stolen car, possession of drug paraphernalia and driving while his license was revoked. He was taken to the Mercer County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

According to police, Ciuffo was sleeping inside a 1987 Nissan that had been stolen June 25 from Camp Hill, Pa. During their investigation, police found a hypodermic needle in Ciuffo's possession.

Four Shoplifting Cases In Princeton Last Week

Borough police apprehended three shoplifters last week but two got away at the Princeton Shopping Center in the Township.

Joseph Wright, 33, 243 Hendrickson Drive, West Windsor, was detained Saturday afternoon, after he was seen in Davidson's Market attempting to conceal two packages of steaks and a bag of cookies in his knapsack. The items are worth $24.97.

George Mayo, 19, of Brooklyn, N.Y. was apprehended outside the CVS drug store on Nassau Street Friday evening. He was seen by a clerk concealing four toothbrushes and a tube of toothpaste worth a combined $13.85. Both have a date Monday in Borough court.

A 16-year-old West Windsor Township juvenile was referred to the Borough juvenile officer for stealing a a pair of blue denim shorts last week at a clothing store on Hulfish Street.

According to police, a clerk saw the girl go into a dressing room with the shorts and then exit without them. Police were called.

When apprehended a short distanee away, the suspect was wearing the shorts underneath her pants.

A $125 pair of pants was shoplifted Thursday from the Pants Salon in the Princeton Shopping Center by two Hispanic females, who, police said, looked like a mother and daughter.

According to Capt. David Cromwell, the manager noticed a large bulge under the clothing of one of the suspects. When they left, the two suspects went off in opposite directions, the manager following the older suspect. He saw her pull a pair of pants from her jacket and attempt to hide them in the wheel well of a nearby parked car. He recovered the pants and called police.

Police searched the area but

Park Cleanup Held

Earlier this year, Princeton Township received a Clean Communities Grant from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy. Encompassed within the grant will be a series of park cleanups.

The first cleanup was held Saturday, June 26. The Princeton Youth Baseball League was out in force to clean up Grover Park behind the Princeton Shopping Center, and Hilltop Park on Bunn Drive. More than 30 players, coaches and parents held a cleanup of Hilltop Park, and more than 60 players, coaches, and parents cleaned Grover Park.

All participants made sure that recyclables were separated from the rest of the refuse. In return for their efforts, the Princeton Youth Baseball League will receive a portion of the grant for new uniforms and/or equipment. Other cleanups will be scheduled during the summer and fall.

were unable to locate the suspects. The younger suspect is described as about 15, 5-5, with long black hair tied up in a bun. The second suspect is described as about 50, 5-5, with mid-length hair.

Two Bose stereo speakers valued at $150 each, designed for outdoor use and mounted on a wall outside the President's House on the Westminster Choir College campus, were stolen during a three-day period last week by a thief who unscrewed them from their mounting brackets.

A VCR worth approximately $500 was stolen from a television stand in Room 2 in the Princeton YMCA building. Police said the room was not locked all during the five-day period it is believed to have been taken.

Four outdoor chairs worth $60 each and a $300 table were stolen overnight last week from a patio area at 179 Nassau Street which is property owned by Princeton University.

Car Theft Initiation?

When a resident of Western Way went to get his 1993 silver Honda Saturday morning, he discovered the locked car, which he valued at $18,000, was missing. Some 30 yards away, Township police found a car which a lookup revealed had been stolen from Trenton.

Capt. Cromwell commented that police here have received reports that gangs in Trenton are stealing cars here. As part of the initiation rite, members have to steal a car in Trenton, drive to a surrounding community where they ditch the car and steal another to drive back to Trenton.

"It's happened before," said Capt. Cromwell, "in the Lawrence and Magie apartments area." The Honda has not been recovered.

Borough police report a 1984 Honda was stolen overnight last week from a Nassau Street service station where it had been left by its Township owner for repair. The car was locked and the keys were inside the station office. The car was discovered missing Saturday morning and recovered two days later in Hamilton Township.

Three fishing poles, two boxes of Slim Jims, a box of jawbreakers, a gallon-size can of bubblegum and some Charm Blow Pops were stolen last week from the Black Bottom Canoe Rental off Alexander Street. Police said a window bad been broken between 8:30 last Wednesday evening and 4:45 in the morning to enter the site. The stolen items are valued at $131.

Police received a report of malicious damage at the same location during the weekend. A telephone line was cut and a Public Service electrical box smashed. The vandals also caused an estimated $100 in damage when they ripped open a tarpaulin covering some life jackets.

A 15-speed Schwinn mountain bike valued at $400 was stolen last week from the front porch of a Leigh Avenue home where it had been locked to a porch pillar. The lock was cut.

Three bikes were stolen in the Borough. An unlocked $250 Huffy mountain bike was taken from Spelman Hall, and a $450 Trek mountain bike, owned by a University employee, was taken from Hayes Hall. A 32-year-old Borough resident locked his 10-speed Shogun bike to a wooden fence at the train station on lower University Place. Police report the fence was broken to free the bike.

Borough police investigated a possible burglary on Pine Street, after receiving a call at 11:20 Friday night from a ground-floor resident who reported hearing noises from the second floor.

Police found a door leading from a second-floor deck to a master bedroom open but no signs of a forced entry. Police also found a chair with its wooden seat cracked. It is possible, said Capt. Peter Hanley, that someone used the chair to try to reach the deck. Nothing was taken and no one was seen.

Souper Duper Supper For Elm Court Residents

A new program called Souper Duper has started at Elm Court, a housing development for senior citizens and disabled individuals. Each Monday evening homemade soup and fresh bread are offered at a reasonable cost to residents.

"People living alone often do not take the time to cook homemade meals. Now we are pleased to offer a nutritional, delicious dinner alternative to all residents," says Rhona Porter, the social worker at Elm Court.

Souper Duper is a combined effort of many people. The soup is prepared by the Elm Court kitchen staff. Wadsworth Bakery donates bread each week. Elm Court residents Elizabeth Wyche, Elizabeth Washington, and Arnette Howard are responsible for serving and clean-up.

The proceeds from Souper Duper will be used to enhance the Congregate Program, which provides a hot, noonday meal to approximately 15 people.

The lights are located in the central portion of the shopping center near the fountain. There was no estimate of the damage.

Needs Assessment Set By Area United Ways

The United Way - Princeton Area Communities (UW-PAC) and Delaware Valley United Way (DVUW) will launch a Community Needs Assessment this month to determine the greatest perceived needs and problems in the community and set funding priorities for the next several years.

Questionnaires will be mailed in mid-July to more than 4,000 residents selected randomly throughout greater Mercer County. Residents who receive surveys are urged to complete and return them as soon as possible. The assessment will be multi-tiered and will include the mailed questionnaires, personal interviews, public forums and telephone surveys.

"The success of this effort relies largely on the residents in our community," said Robert E. Humes, UW-PAC vice president of community services and needs assessment co-chair. "Their perception of community needs and problems will shape the conclusions and final report of this project. More important, this data will form the basis of funding priorities for the respective United Ways for the next several years."

Shortly after the questionnaires are mailed to residents, a second questionnaire will be sent to key informants: leaders in business, government, health and human services; clergy and community groups. Personal interviews will be held and a telephone survey administered to 800 residents. Finally, public forums will be held in communities throughout greater Mercer County. Those queried will be asked to rank the needs and problems in the community, problems that relate to them personally, and harriers to services which may he generally available but difficult to access.

"The results of this survey are vital," said Richard Porth, DVUW vice chair of community services and needs assessment co-ehair. "Combined, our United Ways allocate several million dollars eaeh year. The funding priorities that result from this needs assessment will be a significant factor in determining how those funds are distributed. Further, the puhlished report will help direct human service planning efforts for the entire community."

The needs assessment will be completed in late fall with results and a report to be puhlished in January. For date and locations of town meetings or for a copy of the results when they are available, call United Way at 734-9302.

Special Meeting Set By the Planning Board

The Princeton Planning Board will hold a special meeting Thursday to review two concept plans.

One is a scaled-down version of Princeton Christian Church's earlier proposal for a new building and parking on a lot off Route 206 adjacent to the Princeton Gateway Corporate Campus. The other involves relocating two residences and replacing three bungalows and an apartment on Coventry Farm off The Great Road to provide better housing for farm employees.

Princeton Christian Church came before the Planning Board in March with a proposal for two buildings on one of four lots proposed to be subdivided by the owner, Princeton Research Lands, from an 18-acre tract. One of the buildings was proposed to be hexagonal in shape, the other L-shaped. Parking for 120 cars was also planned.

Planning Board members were concerned about the amount of disturbance that would be required. The new plan shows a scaled-down project which is limited to the lower and flatter portion of the site. The proposal requires conditional use authorization for church use.

The new plans call for a single building of approximately 14,740 square feet to be built into the hillside. The building would be octagonal in shape, with one floor for a 275-seat sanctuary and support spaces and a basement to house a fellowship hall, classrooms, storage, utility space and pantry. The building will be prefabricated and assembled and finished on site.

During the March concept review, it was suggested that the church approach Matrix Corporation, owner of Princeton Gateway Corporate Campus, about sharing parking on Sundays. According to the report filed by Planning Consultant Richard Collier, Matrix has indicated a willingness to permit such a shared use but wants it to be revocable if it should sell the property or refinance and the bank finds the parking arrangement unacceptable.

Coventry Form

The Coventry Farm is a 172-acre tract located along The Great Road. It is owned by Janine and John Winant, who live on 32 acres west of The Great Road. The concept plan involves 140 acres on the east side of the road. The proposal is to replace four existing units with new homes and relocate two existing homes to a new location within the farm.

The two homes proposed to be relocated include the gate house immediately to the right of the primary entrance drive and a Dutch colonial structure located south of the bungalows proposed for removal. The four new homes and the two relocated homes would be grouped near the beginning of the entrance drive from The Great Road. Within this complex of residential structures would also be a new henhouse and truck garage which would replace existing structures.

Mr. Collier commented that the retaining of the Winant farm is an important Master Plan and open space goal. He added that the initial schematic design, while subject to refinements, is sensitive to the farm use and the practicalities related to future use.

Support Group Forming For Gay Teens in Area

Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area (PPAMA) in cooperation with the Gay Activist Alliance of Morris County has organized the Gay and Lesbian Youth (GALY) of Mercer County, a new support group.

Coordinated by Scott Moyer, a health educator at PPAMA, the program meets two Saturday afternoons a month in Trenton. It provides gay, lesbian and bisexual young people with positive adult role models, educational materials and activities and a place where they can meet together in a non-threatening, supervised setting. The group has an informal structure and includes time for socializing, an activity such as a talk or movie and group discussion.

According to Mr. Moyer, the program has sparked a great deal of interest among young people and the adult gays and lesbians who serve as group facilitators and role models. The volunteers, who go through an intensive interview and training process and operate under strict guidelines (no outside social contact with the young people, for example) often say they wish there had been a group like GALY for them in their youth.

For more information call Lisa Shelby or Mr. Moyer at 599-4411.

NJPIRG Campaigns For Safe Drinking Water

New Jersey Public Interest Research Group (NJPIRG), the state's largest environmental group, has launched its Safe Drinking Water Campaign in Princeton. Grassroots campaigners will go door to door to build support for PIRG's four-point Safe Drinking Water Platform of 1) reservoir protection; 2) well water testing; 3) banning lead in plumbing and testing high-risk children; and 4) maintaining strong toxic cleanup laws.

"New Jersey's drinking water is threatened from numerous sources," said Andy Igrejas, field coordinator for NJPIRG. "Particularly, overdevelopment near reservoirs and their feeder streams can have a negative impact on water quality. The legislature must act now to preserve this resource for the future."

As a centerpiece of the platform, NJPIRG is pushing A-560, "The Public Water Supply Watershed Protection Act," sponsored by Assemblyman John Rooney (R-39) which would protect reservoirs and their feeder streams with natural buffer zones. The legislation is currently in the Assembly Environment Committee chaired by Maureen Ogden.

Canvassers will sign up residents to be members of PIRG and collect postcards to local representatives in support of the Safe Drinking Water Platform

School Children Raise $1,000 for Scholarships

Elementary school children who participated in the Joe Fund Walkathon raised more than $1,000 for student scholarships for arts programs.

On June 19, children from Littlebrook, Community Park, and Riverside schools, along with their parents, siblings and friends, walked to the John Witherspoon Middle School, to show their support in having programs, such as those at the Arts Council and Creative Theater, be available to children who could otherwise not afford them.

The family of Joe Cerach established the fund at his request. Mr. Cerach was a custodian at Littlebrook School, who, while terminally ill, asked that after he died donations be made to the fund. The money the children raised through their walkathon will be matched by an anonymous donor. Part of the fund will be used this summer to send "Joe scholars" to the Arts Council and to the Westminster Choir College Music Camp.

Mr. Cerach's widow, Shirley, and his daughter Marianne Overk, who met the children at the end of the walkathon, said that they were very grateful to everyone who had participated. In pointing to the commitment the children have to the Joe Fund, Mrs. Cerach mentioned that one child had raised $95 by asking that children coming to her birthday party bring donations instead of presents.

Fund Raiser Is Planned For Shipment to Cuba

The sounds of the Princeton West African Drum Ensemble, poetry readings from Latin America and the Caribbean, plus some refreshments, will fill the Arts Council on Tuesday. These festivities, "Beat with a Heart," will take place in the Arts Council cafe and gallery from 5 to 7 p.m. to support and send off the "Friendshipment" Caravan to Cuba, sponsored by Pastors for Peace.

This summer, the second U.S.-Cuba Friendshipment Caravan will travel throughout the United States collecting aid and goodwill for the people of Cuba. Sponsored by Pastors for Peace, an interreligious foundation for community organization, the caravan of more than 200 trucks will deliver desperately needed supplies such as powdered milk, medicines, vitamins, bicycles and school and medical equipment.

The trucks in the New Jersey Caravan will leave from Elizabeth and pass through Princeton. At the July 13 "Beat with a Heart" Friendshipment Send-off, funds raised by the Princeton-based Hermanas, an organization that works in solidarity with women in Central America and the Caribbean, along with other donations for Pastors for Peace, will be accepted by Pastors for Peace representative and Princeton graduate, Ellen Bernstein '73.

The "Beat with a Heart" music, poetry and reception are free, but tax-deductible donations of any amount to Pastors for Peace are very much desired. Please bring contributions to the Friendshipment Send-off Tuesday, or mail them c/o Hermanas, 169 Meadowbrook Drive, Princeton 08540.

"Beat with a Heart" Friendshipment Send-off is co-sponsored by Hermanas, the Arts Council, Princeton-Granada Sister Cities Project and the Princeton University Office of the Dean of Religious Life.

The instructor, Lynn Powell, worked for the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and The Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation as a writer in the schools, conducting poetry workshops for students and teachers throughout the State of New Jersey. She was one of the founding editors of Under Age the anthology of student writing published annually by the Arts Council. Her own poetry has been published in more than a dozen magazines and will appear this summer in The Paris Review.

The camp will meet Monday through Friday from 9 to noon. The tuition of $90 includes all materials and refreshments. Class size will be limited to 10.

Canal Study Commission Plans Meetings on Safety

In January of 1992, the Governor signed a law creating the Delaware and Raritan Canal Transportation Safety Study Commission.

The law directs the Commission to study safety hazards associated with the Canal and identify ways in which these hazards might be reduced. The Commission must present its findings, conclusions and recommendations to the Governor and Legislature no later than 15 months after its organizational meeting. The Commission consists of 13 members including four legislative representatives, four state agency representatives and five public members.

The value of the D&R Canal as a park, a water supply and a historic resource is clear. At the same time, the Legislature found that benefits associated with the D&R Canal have been threatened by safety concerns, particularly those associated with bridges crossing the Canal as well as barriers along roads that parallel the Canal and along approaches to the Canal. Thus, the Commission was created to examine safety concerns while recognizing the historic and aesthetic integrity of the Canal.

The Study Commission held its initial meeting on April 2. Since then, it has met three times. These meetings covered primarily organizational matters. The Commission will be holding regularly scheduled meetings on the first Friday of each month. As it now undertakes substantive research and discussions, the public is invited to attend the meetings, learn about its study efforts and offer questions or comments.

A limited period of time will be allotted at the end of each meeting for public comment. The Commission will meet next on August 6 at 9 a.m. at the New Jersey Water Supply Authority, D&R Canal Field Office, 770 Bear Tavern Road, West Trenton. The September 3 meeting will be held at the same time and place.

If planning to attend either meeting, call Caroline Swartz, chairperson, at (908) 788-1490 in advance to confirm meeting time, date and place.

County Library System Slated for Expansion

Mercer County Executive Robert D. Prunetti has announced plans for a $15.5 million expansion at each of the nine branches in the County's library system. Construction, which is scheduled to begin by mid-summer, will occur simultaneously at all nine branches in order to take maximum advantage of the current low costs of building and finaneing. The West Windsor branch will receive the largest amount of direct program expansion.

Preliminary plans for the upgrade of the West Windsor branch call for between 9,000 and 14,000 square feet of expansion, which would make it second in size to the library's Lawrence headquarters on Darrah Lane. Preliminary figures put the cost of the West Windsor expansion at an estimated $2 million.

Crisis Support Fund Accepting Applications

Arthur Ashe

sations about the book. Before his death, Ashe read and marked up every chapter but one.

Prof. Rampersad said he felt very urgent about the book, but that Ashe either didn't feel the same urgency or did not like to show that he felt it.

At the end of each two-hour interview, Ashe would have weakened to the point of exhaustion. "I remember once apologizing to him about it," said Prof. Rampersad. "He told me that I should not apologize because everyone with a terminal disease should go through this question-and-answer investigation of the past, that he was really enjoying it."

It was, however, emotionally trying for Prof. Rampersad. "He was quite obviously ill. We had to talk about his AIDS, about his medication in great detail. I was forced to ask all kinds of questions that bordered on intrusive, or that were intrusive. Then there was the knowledge all the time that he was dying, even though he was a very optimistic person."

In November, Prof. Rampersad began sending Ashe the book, chapter by chapter. "There were many desperate evenings of trying to catch Federal Express at 6 o'clock in the dark," he said.

asked him if he ever thought about his mother. He said he thought about his mother every day, and that he'd always thought about his mother every day."

Ashe succumbed to his one attack of pneumonia. He did get out of the hospital, and felt he had been cured. "I spoke to him two days before he died, and he said he was fine except for one little spot on the chest," said Prof. Rampersad. "That was Thursday. Saturday he was dead."

As a professional tennis player, Arthur Ashe won many major tournaments, including the United States and Australian Opens and Wimbledon. In 1979, a heart attack effectively ended his career.

In her review in The New York Times Book Review, Margo Jefferson wrote of Ashe, "He was a stylistic enigma. He had the restrained manners developed when tennis was the avocation of gentleman jocks, and he had the restrained manners developed when a Negro was taught that every action one took would reflect well or badly on the Race as a whole. He had cool, and he was also something of a dweeb."

Prof. Rampersad agreed with the description. "Yes, he was that," he said. "One can't imagine Arthur Ashe out on the dance floor. Yet there is a picture of him in the book from the '60s, with an open shirt, where he does look like a flower child — almost."

Arnold Rampersad

> "His was a long, protracted match which perhaps he lost. But, to use a tennis analogy, he certainly played magnificently."

Prof. Rampersad believes that Ashe could have written his book, but his pace during the final months of his life was furious. "The week after he came out of the hospital after his last, albeit mild, heart attack — in September of last year — he was in at least four cities in five days. At that pace he could not really do much writing."

The Final Chapter

Ashe fully wrote one chapter — the final one, a letter to his 7-year-old daughter, Camera. He started it on the day of President Clinton's inauguration, January 20, just 17 days before his death.

"That came from his heart," said Prof. Rampersad. "I could not presume to alter that chapter."

In the photograph on the book jacket, taken by Ashe's wife, Jeanne Moutoussamy-Ashe, Camera looks very much like her father. At his death, she was the same age he was when his mother died.

He never really recovered from the death of his mother, said Prof. Rampersad. "I once

Not a Tragic Life

Was Ashe's life a tragic one? "No. I don't think it was a tragic life at all," said Prof. Rampersad, "although it had many of the elements of tragedy. In a way his life was one of great success and fulfillment. He worked very hard to make sure his life was not a tragedy, because he fought the diseases and misfortunes.

"Although he died early, in a substantial way he triumphed over these. I say that because they did not curb his spirit. They did not make him despondent, or pessimistic, or cynical, or sybaritic — not at all. His was a long, protracted match which perhaps he lost. But, to use a tennis analogy, he certainly played magnificently."

In their months of collaboration, Prof. Rampersad's opinion of Ashe as an individual grew. "What he said he wanted to be was what he really was, the most amazingly kind, generous, and thoughtful person I've ever worked with."

Prof. Rampersad has also written on Langston Hughes, W.E.B. Du Bois, and Richard Wright. Were there similarities between these figures and Ashe?

"They were all African-American, obviously, and all had to deal with the vicissitudes of life as African-Americans in the United States," said Prof. Rampersad. "They were people of enormous courage. I think that is what unites them, although they were different people, with different kinds of vision.

"But what unites them really is this business of standing up to racism, and bringing a prophetic vision. Arthur did not leave behind major works the way that Du Bois, Wright, and Hughes did. But he certainly made of his life a kind of monument to the integrity of the African-American experience, and also to the strange beauties of the American experience — the strange mixture of opportunity and pain that is the American experience for African-Americans and others."

In the month since its publication, — to excellent reviews — Days of Grace has moved to number three on the New York Times Best Seller List. Normally, this would bring an author pleasure. But the book's success has had very little effect on him, said Prof. Rampersad. "The fact of his death just simply almost forbids me from taking pleasure in it. He should be here talking about his book. He had planned to be."

LANDAU LARGESS: With its sheep banners stretching across the Nassau Street sidewalk, Landau has plenty to offer sidewalk shoppers during last week's 3-Day Sidewalk Sale.

READY AND WAITING: Owner Mike Bonin (in chair) and a clerk at Princeton Army & Navy Store on Witherspoon Street are ready for customers Thursday morning on the first day of last week's 3-Day Sidewalk Sale.

Report by Merchants: Sidewalk Sale a Success

"We're always having a sidewalk sale," quipped Irv Urken about the sale in the Central Business District this past weekend. He was talking about his keeping grills on the sidewalk in front of his Witherspoon Street store in defiance of Borough law. Mr. Urken has challenged the ordinance and is awaiting a judicial decision.

Kidding aside, Mr. Urken did participate in the Borough sidewalk sale. And he liked it. "The idea was positive," he said, "although some people were disappointed by the turnout. This wasn't helped by the rainy weather on Friday." The sidewalk sale took place Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

But the idea was to take a slow weekend and make it a better one, and his store's Saturday was busy. "I would participate again," said Mr. Urken.

"We had a good Thursday," said Dave Wendroff of Harry Ballot. "We had to move indoors on Friday, but it was still good. The three days contributed to a friendly town, and they were better than the comparable three days last year."

"This is something that should be continued," Mr. Wendroff said.

Landau's Robert Landau said he was very pleased with the impact the sale had on his business. "Hopefully, it showed merchants in general that doing things cooperatively has a substantial impact."

Landau's had decided to have its own sidewalk sale and received permission from Mayor and Council to go ahead. The permission applied to every store, and this was the impetus for the town-wide sale, said Mr. Landau.

The sale — held on a traditionally slow weekend when many people are away — received a bit of unexpected help. Additional people were drawn to the area by a national youth soccer tournament, Mr. Landau said. This brought in more than 200 teens, and many families.

The sidewalk sale worked out pretty well, said Princeton Army and Navy owner Michael Bonin, although the weather on Friday could have been better. "It was nice the town got together and did something together. People enjoyed it."

Mr. Bonin said that putting things out on the sidewalk helped guide people into the store. He thinks he would participate in such a sale again.

"It went very well Thursday and Saturday," said Marie Melody, an employee of Hulit's Shoes. "I wish they would do it every week."

PHS Has Gone Downhill Since the Sakala Era

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to congratulate and thank Daniel Bauer for his letter in the June 30 issue of TOWN TOPICS. His writing has hopefully made it clear how disillusioned our town has become. In his own sarcastic way, he put forward the senile and unfocused view of Princeton High School by the administration and Princeton population in general.

First, as a student there, I would like to say that yes, PHS was considered the best high school in New Jersey and indeed, one of the top public schools in the nation during the 1980s. All this was under John Sakala's relaxed and "free" style of administration. This way left the student to make his/her own personal choices about absences and the like.

But when he left, the beginning of the end was upon us. Dr. Coviello, then Vice Principal, decided that although the students were scoring high on the SATs, and a high percentage were going on to college (a large portion going on to Ivy League schools), things would have to change. Why? If it ain't broke, don't fix it!

Well, that's all part of the past. Since then, it's all been downhill. Oh, I'll admit there are many things about Princeton High that still surpass other schools of our age grouping, like P.S. 476 in Manhattan, for example. But we've declined. Visibly so. We have had the principal, one of the vice principals, and two guidance counselors leave, and that's just PHS.

Dr. Carol Choye has left, as well, which affects all of the schools in the Princeton Regional School System. But the funny (or not-so-funny) thing about their departure is that they all left to go to other schools and school systems. Makes you think, huh?

It has been implied, though I'm not sure if it was officially stated, that these administrators resigned because of slight problems with the school board. Right. Like a hole in your head is a slight problem. The truth is, trying to reason with the board is like running into a wall. The insane proposals to spend our dwindling funds are ineffficient, and the futile attempts to make students stay in class astound me.

For example, all you taxpayers listen up — the board approved for twenty thousand dollars to be spent on trying to figure out what was wrong with the leaking gym ceiling. That was before they even started to repair it. I know I can't wait till I become a taxpayer here. Mmmmhh, all those thousands of our dollars being incapably used.

In closing, I feel that the problem is not fully with the students, but more with the staff and/or administration in Princeton. Their constant fighting with the board, incompetent use of all available resources, and other such goofups sure do give the youth here in Princeton a nice view that you don't need a high school diploma to get a job. Just run for school board.

Finally, Will Mr. and Mrs. William Farley leave the students alone? (TOWN TOPICS, Mailbox, June 30). There are more important things in life than trying to stop what can never be quelled, such as skipping class and smoking.

20 Nassau Owner Refutes Statements Concerning Non-Negotiation of Leases

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On June 30 an article appeared on Page t of TOWN TOPICS under the title "Changes Afoot on Nearly Every Block of Borough Central Business District" written by Myrna K. Bearse.

There are some completely untrue statements connected with my full name and my property at 20 Nassau Street.

Two of my tenants, CD Danny's owner Daniel Scavone, and Alan Royce Fine Clothing owner Alan Haines, went out of business between May and July, 1993.

Both tenants blamed the deteriorating business conditions, loss of suppliers, etc. as some of the reasons for the failure of their businesses. As quoted from the article, "He [Mr. Haines] was unable to negotiate a new lease with the building's owner Mary Vuglen. A similar problem is said to have been a factor in the closing of CD Danny's located in the same 20 Nassau Street building."

Both Mr. Scavone's and Mr. Haines' statements are totally untrue.

The fact is that Mr. Scavone's original three-year lease was extended for one more consecutive year. Mr. Scavone has never requested a longer lease extension and has not even signed the offered lease extension from January t992 to January 1993, but suddenly moved out on April 30, t993 still owing several months of rent which I am presently try to recover through legal means.

Mr. Alan Haines had business difficulties throughout the year 1992. I was patiently dealing with delayed rental payments, "insufficient funds" returned checks, hoping that his business would improve. By the end of t992 I engaged legal help to collect past-due rents, but am still not fully paid to the end of his tenancy.

Mr. Haines has never asked me for the new lease. I would have been more than happy to offer him and Mr. Scavone a lease extension.

Their failure reflects badly on my cash flow from the building, since I now have two vacant stores.

What kind of a businesswoman would I be in helping to run my tenants into business failure? It would contradict my own best interests. Whenever tenants ask me for an extended lease, I am happy to grant it to them so as to maintain the occupancy of rental space.

Harry Ballot Co. owner David Wendroff has obtained upon request a four-year lease signed on August 31, 1992. Image Photo owner Helen Jo has obtained upon request a three-year lease signed on Feburary 28, 1993. Gilded Lion owner Leo Arons has obtained an eight-year lease in t987 which will expire in 1995.

Since 1989, I have not increased the rents to the majority of my tenants in the whole building in consideration of the economic recession, although my taxes, insurance, utilities and services have increased during that period.

It's rather human taking potshots at the successful landlord by the failed businessmen tenants. I understand that, although I condemn it.

But it is highly irresponsible, to say the least, of the reporters to quote the defamatory remarks against a businessperson in town like myself without prior checking with me as to the truthfulness of those defamatory remarks.

Reform of Curriculum Needed at Middle School

To the Editor of Town Topics:

At a meeting of the program committee of the Princeton Regional School Board on June 22, Dr. Laurel Kanthak presented a review of the JW Middle School program that had been developed by the consulting team of Dr. Kanthak and Dr. Johnston

In general, Dr. Kanthak had many good things to say about the Middle School and its professional staff. As the community knows, the Middle School has many excellent teachers who have dedicated themselves to providing a stimulating education to our children as they become young adults. Dr. Kanthak was also very positive about the house structure and suggested thnt our Middle School was very much in the forefront of a movement in this direction across the country.

Nevertheless, Dr. Kanthak identified a serious problem in the Middle School program. Specifically, she stated in her report that "there is no identified, sequential, school-wide curriculum. As a result, enormous differences exist among teachers of the same grade nnd subject regarding the material that is covered, the rigor of the requirements, and the depth of the coverage."

In response to this problem, Dr. Kanthak laid out a series of specific recommendations for a process by which the district could begin to develop such a curriculum. She also emphasized the need for strong district-wide leadership in this area and suggested that mandatory, ongoing professional development would be an essential component of curriculum implementation.

I would like to challenge the school board to pay close attention to these recommendations and others by Dr. Kanthak and to not let this report slip under the table like others in past years. It is only by heeding these recommendations that all children in the Middle School will be given the opportunity of obtaining a high quality education. Since any curriculum development process will take time, it is critical that the school board act as quickly as possible to get the process going.

Open Air's "Hair" Suffers from Technical & Generational Difficulties

In 1968, when the musical Hair premiered, I was 15. Described by its authors as a "non-book musical," Hair opened 25 years ago to reviews, on the one hand, of "the first Broadway musical in some time to have the authentic voice of today rather than the day before yesterday" and, on the other, to descriptions of "a pagan ritual, a demonstration, a riot, and a scandal."

My mother, with four teenagers concurrently, went to see it with her sophisticated journalist sister, and they left before intermission (probably reminded them too much of our house at dinnertime). Sometime in the shadow of Watergate, Hoir went underground and has only recently resurfaced in the current vogue of "reminiscing" about the 1960s.

Omicron Theatre Productions has presented Hoir during these past two weekends at Washington Crossing Park's Open Air Theatre, acknowledging the show as a "slice of history." Unlike other recent programs looking back at the 1960s, in which scripts can present events with the temperance of 25 years of hindsight, a theatrical script is designed to be presented as written, and therein lies the dangers of this production.

Hair is a show about people not terribly appealing to our 1990s' eyes. With character descriptions such as "... as charming an acid-head as can be found east of Cooper Square," this is not a family show to which one can take children in the hopes of theatrical role models, though the war-protesting characters of Hair can still garner audience sympathy. This production of Hoir, although acknowledging that "the world today is a whole different place," failed to take the educational and historical significance of the show seriously and presented what are heard by modern ears as tasteless and offensive words without the theatrical strength needed to convey their context.

Usual Technical Problems

The opening night of Thursday, June 24, was rife with the usual Washington Crossing technical problems as microphones spewed feedback and singers not singing directly on the stage could not be heard. Music Director Kathy Haynie put together a terrific small band, hut for the first half, they seriously drowned out the singers to the point where most words could not be understood.

Someone got the word to the musicians during intermission, and the problem was alleviated in the second act.

The cast and directors made a significant effort to set the mood with a recorded prelude of music by the Doors and wafts of incense (which at our ages only aggravates allergies, rather than transport one's self to a higher plane). Most, if not all, of the cast was under the age of 21, exacerbating the difficulty of articulating a time period through which they had not lived, in a show that has no discernihle plot.

The mood is set through the songs, many of which are cleverly complex and intricate musically with words that did speak to the conflicts of the times. Unfortunately, songs such as "Colored Spade," well performed hy Marcus Chaney, and Suzanne O'Neill's rendition of "Air" were lost under the band.

As vocally pleasing as some of the singers were (Tom Condon and Carrie DeNito also come to mind as some of the stronger performers), the singers were not given anything to do during their songs and a great deal was lost in theatricality and impact.

Directors Suzanne and Bill O'Neill focused their attention on the "free love," free-form aspects of the play, and judging from the numbers in the audience who left at intermission, this is perhaps not an emphasis today's parents want to present to their families. There is drama in Hoir, but it was missed in this production in favor of crowd scenes which bordered on the tasteless for a family-oriented theatre.

Hair is not a show that should go back underground for another 25 years. Like all presentations of a particular era of history, there is something which can be learned and aspects of society which can be recognized as never-changing — especially the continual difficulty parents have in "not sweating the small stuff" (such as length of hair). However, a show about sex, drugs, and rock and roll needs to be presented with care and theatrical discretion, as these are topics which have caused controversy in recent years. As much as the cast of this production may have enjoyed themselves, let's hope that they understood at least some of the undertones to their production.

The Open Air Theatre will continue its summer series this weekend with Silver Dollar Productions' performance of The Chocolate Soldier, July 8, 9, 10, and 14 to 17. Ticket information can be obtained by calling 737-1826 after 5 p.m. on performance dates.

Subscriptions Available For Dance-at-McCarter

New York City Ballet, Pilobolus, Hubbard Street Dance Company, Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company, Dance Theatre of Harlem and the Mark Morris Dance Group will all appear in 1993-94 Dance-at-McCarter season.

The season will open with Stars of the New York City Ballet on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 5 and 6. Led by Heather Watts, a company of 20 principals and soloists from the New York City Ballet will present a program of works by George Balanchine and Peter Martins.

The series will continue with a return engagement by the Dance Theatre of Harlem on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 22 and 23. Founded by Arthur Mitchell and a national treasure for more than 20 years, the company is still a pioneer in the field of dance, with classical, modern and ethnic repertoire that reflects its fierce commitment to the most rigorous classical standards.

Series One and Two conclude on Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5, with the Hubbard Street Dance Company. Combining the explosive energy and style of jazz and music theater with the strength and technique of classical ballet, this company from Chicago has been cheered by SRO audiences at McCarter twice as a special event.

The 3-D series, which has been standing-room-only for three consecutive seasons, will begin with the Mark Morris Dance Group, one of the hottest groups in American dance, on Wednesday, November 3. The "prodigal son" of modern dance returned to McCarter two seasons ago, following a long-time residency in Brussels, and was a sellout.

Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company, whose mercurial energy, generosity of spirit, innovative use of partnering, unexpected body juxtapositions and probing redefinition of virtuosity have become trademarks of this multi-cultural group, will return to McCarter after a four-year absence on Tuesday, May 24

The third company in the 3-D series will be Pilobolus Dance Theatre on Monday, March 28. It was in 1971 that this troupe first unleashed its startling synthesis of dance, gymnastics, theater and mime on enthralled audiences. The company returns with its playful images and stark visions, including new works as well as favorites from their repertoire.

Subscriptions for Series One or Two are now available for as little as $84. Subscriptions for Series 3-D begin at $66. Remaining tickets for individual events will go on sale in September. Subscriptions may be purchased by phone or in person from the McCarter Theatre subscription office, 91 University Place. The phone number is 683-8900.

The Lark Quartet With Guest Oboist

The Princeton University Summer Chamber Concerts will continue on Wednesday, July 14, with The Lark Quartet and guest artist Thomas Gallant, oboist. The concert will begin at 8 in Richardson Auditorium. Admission is free but tickets will be required.

Winner of the Naumburg Chamber Music Award in 1990, The Lark Quartet has just returned to New York City as the Gold Medal winner of the Shostakovich International String Quartet Competition, held in St. Petersburg, Russia. The Quartet has been awarded top prizes in five major international competitions. Highlights of the quartet's recent seasons include debuts at Lincoln Center, Kennedy Center, and in Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, as well as concert tours of Europe, Australia, Taiwan, Hong Kong and the People's Republic of China.

The Lark is quartet-in-residence at the Grand Canyon Music Festival, and in 1991 served as the official quartet both at the Cape and Islands Festival in Massachusetts and at the Gina Bachauer International Piano Competition in Utah. The members of the Lark Quartet are Eva Gruesser and Jennifer Orchard, violins; Anna Kruger, viola; and Astrid Schween, cello.

First Prize winner of the Concert Artists Guild International New York Competition, Mr. Gallant has performed recitals at Weill and Merkin concert halls in New York City and at the Ambassador Auditorium in Los Angeles. He has appeared at the festivals of Spoleto and Ravinia. His performances have been broadcast on National Public Radio's "Performance Today" show, on the Voice of America, and on WFMT in Chicago.

The program opens with the String Quartet in C Major, Op. 59, No. 3 by Beethoven. Subtitled Hero, this refers to the last movement of the quartet and acknowledges its truly mighty conception. Next, Thomas Gallant will join members of the quartet for a performance of Mozart's Quartet in F Major for Oboe and Strings, K. 370. The program concludes with Schubert's Quartet in D Minor, D. 810, Death and the Maiden, a major work in the quartet literature.

Margaret Kennard Johnson's Summer Chamber Concerts poster will be available for purchase at Richardson Auditorium the evening of the performance. Picnicking will be allowed on the grass behind Alexander Hall. Cleanup is the responsibility of the picnickers.

Tickets may be picked up at the Richardson Auditorium box office Monday through Friday, 4 to 7, and from 4 to 8 on the evening of the performance. There is a two-ticket per patron restriction. The box office will not take telephone reservations. Tickets for the July 14 concert will become available on Thursday. The box office phone is 258-5000, for information only

Full Range of Services From Crystal Cleaners

"I always wanted my own business. Isn't this the dream of most people? You get the benefit of whatever effort you put in. I most enjoy being my own boss, and I am very proud of my work. It's hard work and long hours, but I like it and always do my best."

David Chang opened Crystal Cleaners at 830 State Road (Route 206) in May, and he says he already has regular customers.

"There is a real variety of people coming in — lots of different customers, including Oriental people. Some come in every week, and many have complimented me on the quality of the work. They say everything looks nice.

"I always try to be nice to customers," he continues. "Customer service is very important. I enjoy meeting the different people and talking to them. I also try to learn their names. I believe there was a need for another cleaner in Princeton, and this is a good location. There is a lot of retail and also offices here, and it's a handy place."

One of his customers, back for a third time, agrees. "This is very convenient to my home," she reports, "but also they do very good work. My things look very nice, and I'm pleased."

Mr. Chang came to the U.S. from Seoul, South Korea, 14 years ago, and he now lives in Pennington, where his wife and sister have operated another cleaner, Circle Cleaners, for the past year. He says he is very happy living and working in this area.

"I like both Pennington and Princeton very much. The people are friendly, and they appreciate good work."

CAREFUL CLEANING: "I want to welcome everyone to our cleaners, and say come in and see us. We do all kinds of cleaning, and we will do our best for you." David Chang, owner of Crystal Cleaners at 830 State Road (Route 206), looks forward to introducing customers to his new dry cleaning and laundry service, which opened in May. Alterations are also offered.

Full Service Cleaning

Full service cleaning, including blankets, draperies, and table cloths, as well as the more typical suits and dresses, is available at Crystal Cleaners, which also provides laundering and pressing. Leathers and furs are sent out.

Mr. Chang notes that he has the latest computerized equipment. "The new dry cleaning machines have fewer fumes and are environmentally safe. They work very well."

He adds that he has been especially busy with men's and women's jackets, and shirts have also been a big item.

We are getting everything," he reports, "and we always look in the pockets. You never know what you will find. We often find money, and of course, we always return it. Once we found $35, and the owner was very surprised. We also see papers, letters, addresses, phone numbers — all kinds of things. There can be a lot of surprises."

Alterations are available, and most common are shortening or lengthening hems, but people will often want a button sewed on, too, says Mr. Chang.

Cleaning prices include $4.10 for a jacket, $3.40 for pants, and $7.45 for a dress. Laundered shirts are $.99, and table cloths begin at $10.

Currently, there is a Grand Opening Sale, offering 25% off dry cleaning over $10, and $3 off cleaning over $15. Also, if a customer brings in two suits, a third suit will be cleaned free.

Two or three days is a typical time span for cleaning, but same-day service is also available if items are brought in before 9:30 a.m.

As an extra service for busy customers, Crystal Cleaners will arrange for shoe repairs.

"Most of all, I want to give customer satisfaction and offer special attention to people," says Mr. Chang. "I hope to build up the customer base and serve the community with quality cleaning."

Crystal Cleaners is open Monday through Friday 7 to 7, and Saturday 8 to 5.

Among the highlights in the paintings galleries are works by Claude Monet, Vincent van Gogh, and Paul Cezanne. Tours include the pre-Columbian, Far Eastern, Medieval, and Ancient galleries, as well as the newly installed contemporary galleries, with works by such modern masters as Richard Diebenkorn, Jim Dine, Willem de Kooning, Andy Warhol, and Frank Stella. Highlights tours meet at the information desk in the museum lobby.

The museum is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5. It is closed on Mondays and major holidays.

The exhibition, "Twentieth-Century Masterworks on Paper and Sculpture from the Nowinski Collection," will remain on view at the museum through July 17.

AAMH and Art Society Plan Benefit Show & Sale

The Association for Advancement of Mental Health and the Garden State Watercolor Society will both benefit from an art show and sale on Sunday, July 25, at the Hyatt Regency, Princeton.

The organizations are jointly sponsoring the art sale, which will take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the hotel. All works are by GSWS members, and proceeds from the sale will be shared by AAMH and GSWS.

For a donation of $2, visitors can browse the works and buy up to 200 framed and 750 unframed watercolor paintings by some of the finest watercolor artists in the state. Refreshments will be available.

The AAMH is a private, nonprofit community health agency that provides comprehensive services to Mercer County individuals and their families, whose lives are adversely affected by emotional distress, psychiatric illness and developmental disability.

The GSWS is an organization of watercolor artists whose goal is to support and encourage watercolor painting by offering educational and viewing opportunities for the central New Jersey area.

Exhibits

The works of husband and wife artists/illustrators Charles and Susan Tang of Lawrenceville will be the featured art at the new exhibit of St. Francis Medical Center's Community Art Gallery opening July 20.

Charles Tang has illustrated books for 13 years for Albert Whitman & Co., Harper, Dell, Scholastic, Avon and Ballantine books.

Susan Tang will exhibit illustrations from Babysitters Little Sisters. Mrs. Tang has been illustrating books for 12 years and has worked for Bantam, Scholastic, Pocket Books, Dell and Knopf.

The public is invited to meet the artists at a reception July 20 from 4 to 6 p.m. The show will continue through September 25.

Exhibits

Exotic bantam chickens that range in her yard are the subject of large ink, gouache, and water crayon drawings by Kate Jeffers, which will be on display at Art's Garage, 49 East Broad Street, Hopewell. The exhibit will open on July 9, with a reception from 6 to 8 p.m.

AT ART'S GARAGE: An exhibit of drawings of large bantam chickens by Kate Jeffers, will open at Art's Garage in Hopewell on July 9. Also on display will be bronze heads by Robin Nelson.

Ms. Jeffers has exhibited in Trenton, in an exhibit commemorating Women's History Month, entitled "Lift and Separate," and at the Mill Hill Playhouse, in a solo exhibit in 1991.

Also on display will be Robin Nelson's highly crafted bronze heads that are mounted on poles. Ms. Nelson currently works at The Johnson Atelier, and has participated in several area group exhibits, including "Lift and Separate."

An exhibit featuring works by Carol Scott will open at The Princeton Medical Center dining room on Friday, July 16, at 4 p.m. The show will run until September 16.

Ms. Scott is a watercolorist who has exhibited in a number of solo and group shows throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania. She is a member of the American League of Pen Women and the Burlington County Art Guild, and an associate member of the New Jersey Watercolor Society and the Allied Artists of America.

A retrospective exhibition of the work of Abe Liebmann of West Orange will open on Monday at the offices of Hill Wallack, 210 Carnegie Center. Mr. Liebmann is the father of Robin L. Wallack and Dana L. Donati, both of Princeton.

Spanning a career of more than 50 years, the exhibition of some 40 works will include collage, oil paintings, and works on paper in styles that range from realism to non-objective. The exhibition will remain on view through August 31.

Over the years, Mr. Liebmann's work has evolved from symbolic imagery rendered in a low-key palette to interpretive geometry using bright, often near-fluorescent color. He describes his work as "structural," saying "Some people would call this abstract but there is definitely content as well as form. My work, today, is mainly geometric reductions of things that I see — people, buildings, the world around me."

Post 218 Breaks Out With 3-Game Win Streak

Forget that three-year albatross around Post 218's neck of not being able to win two in a row. Forget not winning three in a row. They're both history.

In fact, Princeton Post 218 almost made if four straight last week in the American Legion League but it fell one run short in dropping a 6-5 decision Thursday to Trenton Post 93 in its last start.

How does it feel to get out from under the cloud of not being able to string together a couple of wins? "I love it," said Post 218 manager Tom Parker.

"We had a good game last night. [The loss to Trenton] Danny Wilson in relief of Rathbone did an excellent job. We just couldn't generate enough offense to get him some runs." All the runs in the game came in the first two innings. Wilson limited Trenton to one hit in the four scoreless innings he worked.

"We made a couple of mistakes that let them put runners in scoring position," continued Parker. "After that I thought our guys played real well. I would have liked to have won one more but if we can keep going like this, I'll take three and give up one anytime."

Wilson homered and drove in three runs for Post 218 and Matt DeVeau had two of Princeton's six hits, as Post 218 scored four runs in the top of the first. Trenton got three back in their half of the first and then went ahead with three more in the second off a two-run double by Marco Civelli Post 218 starter Jeremy Rathbone, who gave up all six Trenton runs, was the loser.

BIG WEEK FOR WILSON: Post 218 four-year player Danny Wilson had a big week. He had the tying and game-winning hits in a 5-4 victory over Ewing and against Trenton he pitched four scoreless innings in relief, allowing just one hit.

Two days earlier, Post 218 had won its third straight with a 14-3 rout of Bordentown. Catcher Scott Muzyk wielded the big bat for the Princeton team with three hits, including a double, driving in two runs. Infielders Nathan Dean and Mike Procaccini each had two hits for the victors, who scored in five of the seven innings, plating six runs in the sixth off Bordentown's third pitcher Greg Coleman.

Former Hun player Sam Boraie turned in a solid performance on the mound for Post 218. He fanned seven and allowed just six hits in going all the way for his second win.

Post 218 had begun the week with a 14-2 victory over Princeton Post 76. It followed that with a 5-4 win over Ewing.

Wilson Hero in Ewing Win

For pure drama, Post 218's extra-inning, 5-4 win over Ewing has to rank at the top Especially for Post 218 veteran Wilson.

The game was scoreless until the fifth when Ewing scored two runs off Post 218 pitcher Jeff Tantum. Princeton tied it with single runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth innings. In the top of the seventh Ewing went ahead, 3-2, on a run-scoring double by Tim Stout. Post 218 sent it into extra innings, however, when Wilson, up for the first time as a pinch-hitter, singled home Dean who had singled, stolen second and advanced to third on a sacrifice fly.

Ewing regained the lead for the third time in the top of the eighth, combining a leadoff double by Justin Latini and a Post 218 error. Like three of Ewing's four runs, the run was unearned.

When DeVeau's fly ball was misplayed in left field, he ended up on second base to start the bottom of the eighth for Post 218. Following a groundout which sent him to third, DeVeau scored the tying run on Geoff Spies's single. Another Ewing error on a ball hit by Dean placed runners on first and second With two out and the winning run on second, Wilson cracked another single for the win.

An historic win. It marked the first time in its four-year history that Post 218 had won two games in a row.

In going the distance, Tantum allowed just six hits and struck out three for his first Legion win.

Post 218 enjoyed a four-day break for the holiday. After a scheduled return with Broad Street Bank, it will host North Trenton this Wednesday and visit Lawrence on Friday, both at 5:45.

On Saturday, it will play Hopewell at t at the Hun School diamond and on Tuesday it will oppose Mitchell Davis at Trenton High Five more games remain before the regular season finale on July 20.

Here's an amazing fact about a current baseball player ... In all of big league history, Barry Bonds is the ONLY player ever to average 30 homers, 100 runs batted in, and 40 stolen bases a season over a 3-year period ... Bonds achieved those totals in 1990-91-92 ... Not even Willie Mays or Babe Ruth or Ty Cobb or Hank Aaron or anyone else, except Bonds, has ever done it.

Amazing, but true ... Despite all the good-hitting catchers in baseball in the last half-century, NO catcher has won the batting championship in either the National or American Leagues ANYTIME in the last 50 years ... Post 76 Splits 2 Games; Fails to Gain in MCALL

In games last week in the Mercer County American Legion League, Princeton Post 76 halted a losing streak with a 10-3 victory over Ewing, but then a day later it lost an 8-6 decision to Mitchell-Davis to remain mired in the standings, nine games out of the lead with a 5-11 record.

Mitchell-Davis, an 8-19 team last year, won its tenth game in 17 starts this year against Post 76 when it scored in every one of the first six innings to take an 8-4 lead. It pounded out 13 hits, led by winning pitcher Dan Abbate, who played a major role in getting his own win by connecting for three hits, including a triple. Abbate drove in four of his team's ten runs.

Post 76 had eight hits, two each by Phil Ledesma and DH Ian Matusezewski. For a change, manager Jerry Price got a route-going performance from his beleaguered pitching staff from B.J. Rutkowski. Rutkowski fanned four and walked two in absorbing his third loss.

The previous day, Post 76 hurler Gary Botto evened his record at 3-3, as he, too, went all the way in a 10-3 victory over Ewing. Post 76 jumped on starting Ewing hurler Jermaine Parker for three runs in the first and three more in the third inning. Justin Mucciarelli came on in the fourth for Ewing but he was roughed up when Post 76 plated two more runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings to put the outcome out of reach.

Ryan Spruill's two-run triple sparked Post 76's first inning. Brian Rooney douhled for Post 76 and Spruill, Dave Urhanek and Matusezewski each drove in two runs. Botto fanned six Ewing batters and held slumping Ewing to four hits.

The Winners Are Named In Boys' Golf Tourney

Amish Patel of Plainsboro shot a 75 to top his division at the Peddie Golf Course in Hightstown last month in the Independent Insurance Agent Junior Classic qualifying tournament.

In second place in the boys' division was Jason Shrimpf of Hopewell with 76; third was Spencer Grossman of Monmouth Junction with 78; fourth was Russell Ray of Pennington at 79 followed by Alby Toto of Pennington and John Leahy of Princeton, both at 80.

The top eight qualifiers advance to the HAJC state finals on July 19 at the Peddie Golf Club. Winners of the state finals will have the chance to be paired with a PGA Tour or LPGA Tour professional during the third round of the HAJC finals in mid-August at the Chenal Country Club in Little Rock, Ark.

Ficarro's Clubs Grove: Tied for Fourth Place

Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body put a big hurt on Grove Plumbing last week in the Women's Softball League with a 9-1 victory.

Ficarro's put the game away in the first inning when it sent 11 batters to the plate for six runs. When Ficarro's plated three more in the third, the outcome was history. With the win, Ficarro's climbed back over .500 again and tied Mercer Spring, which has lost its last three, for fourth place. Both are 10-9.

With five games left to play in the 24-game regular season, Ficarro's has a hammerlock on making the playoffs. The top six teams in the nine-team league compete in the playoffs. "There will be a lot of jockeying for position among the top six teams," predicted Ficarro general manager Bob Smyth. "The higher you finish, the better you make out in the draw."

Despite the impressive win in its last start, "the disappointing thing," said Smyth, "is when our team turns on the juice nobody can stay with us. We didn't do it early enough. When you lose three or four games out of the blocks, it's hard to make up."

After a scheduled game with Dot's Girls, Ficarro's will have the chance to play spoiler again on Thursday when it meets Three Seasons at 6:30 on Mercer Park's Field 4. Three Seasons and Grove are tied for second place in the standings.

On Tuesday on Field 3 at 6:30, Ficarro's has a key matchup with Mercer Spring.

Co-captain Donna Nicholson led Ficarro's 16-hit attack against Grove with three hits in four at-bats. Beth Ault had two hits in three appearances, including a triple, and drove in three runs. Ellen Leader, Cee Aerstin and Sandi Hibbs all contributed two hits each, one of Hibbs' going for a double.

Ficarro's winning pitcher, Carol Ann Mazzella, pitched out of two bases-loaded situations in the third and sixth innings. "No one does it better than she," commented Smyth.

Since 1980, no other team aside from Ficarro's (Ficarro's is this year's defending champion), Three Seasons or Grove Plumbing has won the league title. With an 18-3 record, it appears as if coach Debbie Simpson's front-running Miller Lite will join that elite coterie.

Said Smyth, "Miller has been knocking on the door. They have a good team. They're in good shape to win it."

The standings:

	W	L	Pct
Miller Lite	18	3	.857
Grove Plumbing	15	5	.750
3 Seasons	15	5	.750
Steve Ficarro's	10	9	.526
Mercer Spring	10	9	.526

Is There a Four-Peat in Their Future?

Brendan Branon and Keith Wadsworth

Before the Chicago Bulls accomplished it with their seventh game victory over the Phoenix Suns last month, there was much ado over whether there was a three-peat in the Bulls' future: a third straight NBA championship.

The Princeton High football team beat them to it. The Little Tigers gained their own three-peat last year when, for the third straight season under three-year coach Keith Wadsworth, they gained a berth in the NJSIAA Group II state football playoffs. The Blue and White also made a little more history when it defeated Lawrence High, 8-0, in the Group II semifinals for its first state tournament victory ever. PHS lost 14-0 to undefeated Carteret in the finals.

Around here the big question this fall will be, "Is there a four-peat in the Little Tigers' future — a fourth straight appearance in the playoffs?"

Joining Wadsworth in his fourth campaign will be four-year starting quarterback Brendan Branon. There is only one change in the 1993 schedule released last week: Hun School has been replaced by Delran in the final game of the regular nine-game season. In one other change, the second game with Hightstown will be played on a Thursday evening because the Jewish holiday Yom Kippur falls on a Saturday. There are just four home games.

The 1993 schedule: September 18, Nottingham, 11 a.m.; 23, Hightstown, 7:30 p.m., away; October 2, Lawrence, 11 a.m.; 9, Steinert, 2 p.m., away; 16, Manasquan, 1 p.m., away; 23, McCorristin, 2 p.m., away; 30, Ewing, 2 p.m., away; November 6, West Windsor, 2 p.m.; 13, Delran, 11 a.m.

Last fall, Princeton High finished with an overall 7-4 record. The year before it compiled a 6-3-1 record and in its first year under Wadsworth, the Little Tigers surprised everyone by winning their first five before ending 6-4. Wadsworth's three-year record is 19-11-1.

PEOPLE in the News

Bebe Neuwirth, Moving On and Up, Will Star in Damn Yankees Revival

Just when the New York Yankees are showing signs of life and kindling hopes among their fans for a possible pennant victory comes news that the musical Domn Yonkees will be revived on Broadway in the coming season and that it will star Princeton's own Bebe Neuwirth, daughter of Lee and Sidney Neuwirth of Richard Court.

Ms. Neuwirth will play Lola ("Whatever Lola wants, Lola gets"), the role originated by Gwen Verdon when the musical opened on Broadway in 1955. Victor Garber will play the Devil. Domn Yonkees, about a Washington baseball fan who sells his soul to the devil so his team can whip the New York Yankees, won the Tony Award for best musical.

The revival will play at the Old Globe Theater in San Diego from October 1 through December 5. Broadway previews are scheduled to begin February 1, with March 3 as the opening date.

Ms. Neuwirth returns to the U.S. this week from London where she took over Chita Rivera's role in Kiss of the Spider Womon when Ms. Rivera came to New York to star in the Broadway production. A triple threat as a singer/dancer/actress, Ms. Neuwirth is viewed as an up-and-coming Broadway musical star, with Ethel Merman, Gwen Verdon and Ms. Rivera as her immediate progenitors.

In 1986 Ms. Neuwirth won a Tony Award for a featured actress in a reproduction of the musical Sweet Chority for which Ms. Verdon reproduced the original choreography of her husband, Bob Fosse. Ms. Verdon had played the original Charity, the dance hall hostess who wants to be loved, in 1966. Ms. Neuwirth attracted the attention of Mr. Fosse when she appeared in Little Me in New York, and at his invitation successfully auditioned for a replacement role in his Dancin'.

Last summer Ms. Neuwirth received the Los Angeles Drama Critics Award for her performance in Chicago, which played at the Long Beach Theater. She was also one of four performers in Cabaret Verboten, a collection of songs that were forbidden to be sung during the Nazi regime in Germany, that was staged at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles.

Ms. Neuwirth began her career as an understudy for Sheila, the over-the-hill chorus girl, and for Cassie, the number one lead, in the touring company of the musical A Chorus Line. She quickly moved up to play Sheila and continued to play the role when the musical returned to Broadway. In addition to Little Me and Doncin', she performed in New York in the comedy cabaret, Upstoirs ot O'Neal's.

On television, Ms. Neuwirth was best known as the repressed psychiatrist, Lillith Sternen Crane, on Cheers. She plays a detective in the movie Malice, a psychological thriller made with Alex Baldwin and George Scott, which is scheduled for release this fall.

But according to her mother, her real love is singing and dancing and acting up a storm in a Broadway musical. "She is happy to be back," Mrs. Neuwirth says.

R. Tyler Gatchell Jr., a theatrical producer and general manager associated with the musicals of Andrew Lloyd Webber, died July 1 of a heart attack at Kennedy International Airport. He was 50 and lived in Manhattan.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Gatchell attended Princeton Country Day School and Princeton High School. He worked at McCarter Theater and spent his senior year at the Professional Children's School in New York City. In 1969, he and Peter Neufeld founded Gatchell & Neufeld, a management and production company that managed or produced more than 100 shows in the United States and abroad, many of them on Broadway. Mr. Gatchell and Mr. Neufeld served as executive producers of Evita, Cats, Song and Dance, Starlight Express and Aspects of Love, as well as two Lloyd Webber musicals headed for Broadway. They are a revival of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and the new Sunset Boulevard, which Mr. Lloyd Webber has dedicated to Mr. Gatchell's memory. Custom built by Edward Bucci Builders, this meticulous, all-brick Federal Colonial sits amidst sweeping 4-acre grounds, one of just four estate homes magnificently sited within a ...ate cul-de-sac in Princeton Township.

Views of lush and colorful plantings — which surround the clear, rippling water of an Anthony in-ground pool — enhance each of the home's three main gathering areas... an expansive 28' x 24' sun-filled family room with floor-to-ceiling fieldstone fireplace; a large, skylit, screened porch with brick flooring; and a broad terrace courtyard tucked privately in between.

Built in 1984, this elegant and traditional center hall Colonial has been continually upgraded and painstakingly maintained by these original owners. Details like the Louis XIV fireplace mantel in the formal living room and the newly remodeled marble master bath will draw your attention.

For your growing family, there are four bedrooms plus expansion possibilities, a first-floor den/library, and three full baths plus two powder rooms.

For a color fact sheet that further describes this property, call Linda Darkes on her 24-hour voice mail service at (609) 452-1997 x121.

If you are an out-of-state resident considering a move to the Princeton area, call her for a video which highlights the special features of this distinctive home.

And if you are a Mercer County or Montgomery Township resident considering the sale of your home, call her to develop a marketing strategy based on your needs. $885,000
